Late 19th Century

327 Market Street, Denton, is one of the most significant late 19th Century buildings existing in Denton. It was built in the Romanesque style similar to the 1895 Courthouse. Its two entrances on Market Street suggest the building was a combination business and residence, which it is used as today.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

329 Market Street, Denton, is a two story, three bay brick house with a hipped roof. The main facade (west elevation) has the north bay recessed and the entrances are located in both of the outer bays. There is a centrally located chimney stack. The house is constructed of running bond with various brick and wood trim. The windows have semicircular and segmental arches with stone keystones, imposts and sills. The north entrance has double doors with a semi-circular transom with small square panes. The south entrance has a full stone arch. The windows on both storys have 2/2 pane sash. The roof has a corbeled cornice.

On the rear is a two story, four bay wing of common bond brick. The main facade (south elevation) has an entrance in the second bay from the west and has a shed gable roof. The windows have 6/6 pane sash and have flat arch brick lintels. There is a two room plan and gable roof.
